Mich: Andreæ

1581.

42.-114

Early European Books, Copyright © 2012 ProQuest LLC.
Images reproduced by courtesy of The Royal Library, Copenhagen.
LN bis 346 [42,-114 4°]

Early European Books, Copyright © 2012 ProQuest LLC.
Images reproduced by courtesy of The Royal Library, Copenhagen.
LN bis 346 [42,-114 4°]

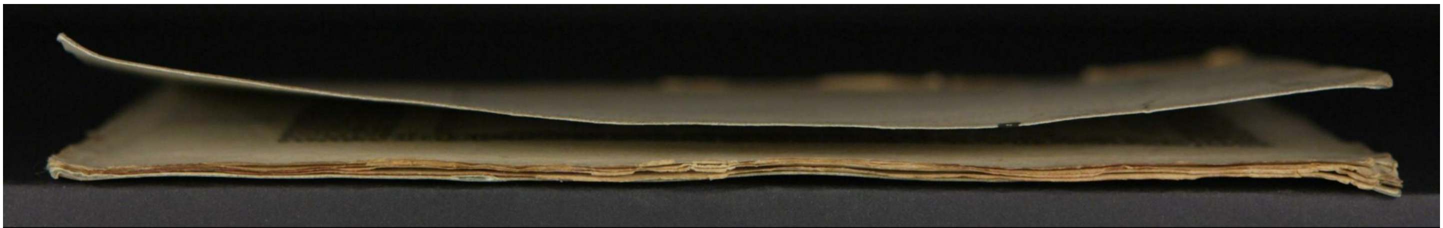

Early European Books, Copyright © 2012 ProQuest LLC.
Images reproduced by courtesy of The Royal Library, Copenhagen.
LN bis 346 [42,-114 4°]

Early European Books, Copyright © 2012 ProQuest LLC.
Images reproduced by courtesy of The Royal Library, Copenhagen.
LN bis 346 [42,-114 4°]

Early European Books, Copyright © 2012 ProQuest LLC.
Images reproduced by courtesy of The Royal Library, Copenhagen.
LN bis 346 [42,-114 4°]

Early European Books, Copyright © 2012 ProQuest LLC.
Images reproduced by courtesy of The Royal Library, Copenhagen.
LN bis 346 [42,-114 4°]

42,-114-4°
Box
(LN bis 346)

BIBLIOTHECA REGIA HAFNIENSIS

Early European Books, Copyright © 2012 ProQuest LLC.
Images reproduced by courtesy of The Royal Library, Copenhagen.
LN bis 346 [42,-114 4°]

CARMEN GRATV-
LATORIVM,

IN HONOREM ERVDITIONE & VIRTVTE PRÆCELLENTISS: VIRI, D. MICHAELIS ANDREÆ Dani, cum ei ſummus Magiſterij Philoſophici gradus decerneretur, in inclyta Vuitebergenſium Academia, menſe Februario Anno partæ ſalutis M. D. LXXXI.

Scriptum ab

ANDREA BRESEN
Gubenenſ: Luſatio.
τῆς φιλίας ergò

Vuitebergæ per Antonium Schön.

Early European Books, Copyright © 2012 ProQuest LLC.
Images reproduced by courtesy of The Royal Library, Copenhagen.
LN bis 346 [42,-114 4°]

BIBLIOTHECA REGIA HAFNIENSIS

Early European Books, Copyright © 2012 ProQuest LLC.
Images reproduced by courtesy of The Royal Library, Copenhagen.
LN bis 346 [42,-114 4°]

EXiguus ſupereſt Titani curſus, equiq;
Extremum currunt ſpacium decliuis o-
(lympi.
Et tunc tempus erit, quoquæ iã frigida cælo
Signa peragrauit, ſuperatis vertice celſo,
Inter vtramq; viam moderabitur aëra mundi.
Et veris rurſum gignentia in oßibus ignem
Tempora deducet, tunc canis montibus humor
Soluetur, pulſo vento, qui grandine terras
Induit, horrendis totumq́; tremoribus orbem
Complet, ſe putris grata vice gleba reſoluet,
Vitalem fibris zephyro ſpirante calorem.
Et tunc omnis ager boreali frigore preſſus
Ridebit, gremioq́; huius commiſſa fouenda
Abiectam occultè mutabunt ſemina formam.
Hæc alternantem mecum, iuuet vſq; morari,
Et conferre animo, atq; abſtruſas diſcere cauſas.
Scilicet id noſtræ ſperans fore, lector amice,
Militiæ, curis multiſq; laboribus actæ
Argumentũ ingens. Quando hæc te cura remordet
Fabor. Pegaſei fontis dulcedine captos,
Immenſum pelagus, loca fæta furentibus Auſtris
Exuperanda manent. Saxo Regina minaci

Ipſa ſedet virtus, degentibus otia vitæ
Seruat inacceſſam ſedem, vultusq; ſerenos
Auertit, (merito) tam ſegnia corpora ludens.
Quin qui conatu multo ſua brachia tollunt,
Saxum hoc vt ſuperent, venti magno agmine iuncti,
Apta quibus vis eſt tranquillum vertere pontum,
Hæc freta concutiunt, & cymbam turbine quaſſant,
Turbidus atq; adeò illorum concurſibus æther
Inſonat, vt cymbam tanto ſudore regenti
Hæc maneat ſpes vna maris ſuccumbere campo.
Iam quibus ad ſaxum naui veniſſe tot annos
Conceſſum, multo virtus ſudore paranda eſt.
Pauci, quos fata, aut ſtudium ſuper ardua feruens
Euehit, aſcendunt poſiti faſtigia ſaxi.
Membra minutatim veluti collapſa fatigans
Hic labor obijcitur, aditumq; effuſus in omnem
Peruigil ad limen venientes excipit. Inde
Quæ noſtrum corpus crudeli tabe reſoluit,
A latere aduerſo, propiorem Inſomnia ſedem
Occupat. Hæc aliquem non ipſo in vertice linquit.
Mentibus humanis adeò'ne tenaciter hæret
Cognitionis Amor. Iuxta ſub parte ſiniſtra
Pauperies miſera, & macie confecta ſuprema,
Virtutis prohibet celſos aſcendere colles.

Early European Books, Copyright © 2012 ProQuest LLC.
Images reproduced by courtesy of The Royal Library, Copenhagen.
LN bis 346 [42,-114 4°]

O graue paupertas telum, (vos conſcia teſtor
Pectora) quæ Iuuenem cui audentem magna cupido
Oppreſſum rapis, & duri ſolatia caſus eſt
Rara canis, feſſi gemimus ſub pondere tanto,
Puluerulenta premis ſpretos perferre labores.
Ut primum requies conceſſa, videre, locumq;
Explorare nouum, quas tandem acceſſeris oras,
Quærere conſtituis: ſeſe fert obuia eunti
En noua forma, volens collo dare brachia circum
Virginis os, habitumq; gerens, & murice lænam
Infectam ex humeris: Tunc ad faſtigia ſaxi,
Continuo inuadit: prærupti ſcandere tentas
Quid ſtruis, aut qua ſpe demens teris otia vitæ.
Reſpice, quænam ſit rebus fortuna, Cupido,
Si cui certa manet virtutis Regia adire.
Quis poterit duros verbis æquare labores.
Aſt ego quæ gemmis, ſarranoq; induor oſtro,
Luctibus haud animos, nec corpora veſtra labori
Obijcio, ſine fine gero nomenq; decusq;,
Crateres ſtatuo, non exultantia Bacho
Corda pauor pulſat, donis opibusq; paratos,
In quascunq; velint poſſum deducere terras.
Heu mihi quã fallunt ſenſus, animumq; labantem,
Et vultus blandi, & mellita cupidinis ora.

 Tu

Tu ne cede dolis tantæ veſtigia flammæ,
Ne ſequere. At ſibi iam ſeruet mentita voluptas.
Exiguus reſtat curſus, iam meta viarum
Fixa manet, placidus iam facto fine quieſces.
Et tunc tempus erit, quo tempeſtatibus actum
Accipiet virtus, curæ caſusq́; leuamen.
Illic res lætæ, requies, & regia dona
Parta tibi, pulſis tenebris & nocte profunda,
Auroram gratam reuehet Sol luce ſerena.
Quare age Leucorei fundata palatia ludi,
Dum lætos iterum Muſis de more triumphos
Inſtaurant, magna & victores voce Iuuentam
Declarant, viridiq; aduelant tempora lauro.
Et tu Michaël non vltimus inter amicos
Noſter Amor, mentis ni me præſagia fallunt.
Dum longa exilia, & vaſtum maris æquor araſti
Caſtalidum, eximiæ laudis ſuccenſus amore.
Ad ſolitos alacri curſu iam tendis honores,
Mene igitur tituli præconem adiungere tanti
Chare fugis: tacitè tanta ad faſtigia tendis.
Non ita amicitiæ vinclo contracta manenti
Herculeum conatum inter, ſtudijq; labores
Iura ſinunt, tecum nec talia fœdera iniuj.
Debeo digna tuis ingentibus omina captis

Noſter

Early European Books, Copyright © 2012 ProQuest LLC.
Images reproduced by courtesy of The Royal Library, Copenhagen.
LN bis 346 [42,-114 4°]

Noſter Apollo veni, turba comitate ſororum
Huc adſis propiùs, qui miles veſter in armis
Acer erat ſempèr, ſpolijs oneratus opimis
Victor ab hoſte redit, manibus date lilia plenis
Vos Heliconiades, & cingite tempora vitta
Emerita, ſi quæ merces ſuper vlla laborum eſt.
Tuq; decus noſtrum felicibus vtere fatis,
Et patriæ tua dexter adi pede tecta ſecundo.
Diues & ingenij dotes aliquando reclude
His ſubter cœlis multo ſudore paratos.
Dicta enarranti legis, curſumq; ſalutis
Jre ad conſpectum chari genitoris & ora
Quo cui contingat, nemeſi feruente docenti
Jpſe ſacer flatus demiſſus ab æthere ſummo,
Has inter tenebras, lucis ſacra oſtia pandat.

Early European Books, Copyright © 2012 ProQuest LLC.
Images reproduced by courtesy of The Royal Library, Copenhagen.
LN bis 346 [42,-114 4°]

Early European Books, Copyright © 2012 ProQuest LLC.
Images reproduced by courtesy of The Royal Library, Copenhagen.
LN bis 346 [42,-114 4°]